

<http://www.foxsports.com.au/cricket/former-england-captain-and-cricket-commentator-tony-greig-passes-away-after-battle-with-lung-cancer/story-e6frf3g3-1226545007618>

<http://www.foxsports.com.au/cricket/former-england-captain-and-cricket-commentator-tony-greig-passes-away-after-battle-with-lung-cancer/story-e6frf3g3-1226545007618#ixzz2GS3fwFYd>

Former England captain and cricket commentator Tony Greig passes away after battle with lung cancer

Coincidence , or bad luck ?

<http://www.espnricinfo.com/magazine/content/current/story/598964.html>

“Tony, who liked to have a cigar occasionally... he said to me: "Would you like a cigar?" I quite enjoyed one every now and again but not very often. On this occasion, the smell of his cigar smelt good and I said, "I'll join you." I had this cigar and a glass of wine with him and it's memorable, decent memory of Tony. In fact, when I got back home and got the news that he had lung cancer, I rang him up and said, "Jesus mate, I hope that wasn't a bad batch of cigars we had in Colombo," and he just laughed.”

<http://www.news.com.au/sport/cricket/tony-greig-and-i-were-the-best-of-enemies/story-fndpt0dy-1226545143256>

Tony Greig and I were the best of enemies Ian Chappell

“Greigy loved a cigar, and so that night we enjoyed a glass of red and a cigar together. It's a memory I'll really treasure.”